How will AP exams be administered? College Board, the entity that operates AP testing, released updated information on March 25, 2020, regarding administration of AP exams. It states:

- Traditional face-to-face exam administrations will not take place. Students will take a 45-minute online free-response exam at home. The exam content will focus on what most schools were able to complete by early March – approximately 75% of the content. However, supplementary lessons will be available for students in order to cover the remaining 25% of the content.

- Students will have the option to write their responses by hand and submit a photo of the responses.
- Some students may want to take the exam sooner rather than later, while the content is still fresh. Others may want more time to practice. For each AP subject, there will be two different testing dates.
- The College Board is offering free, online review courses, delivered by AP teachers from across the country to help AP students prepare for exams. Live lessons begin March 25.

Students enrolled in AP courses who are planning on taking the AP test, will receive additional guidance from their AP teacher.

How will concurrent/dual enrollment students complete courses, and how will credits be issued? HS Students will still be required to complete the coursework for classes in which they are concurrently enrolled, according to the direction and guidance given by their instructor and TCC. Students may choose to earn credit as traditional letter grades OR Pass/No Pass that will be GPA neutral. Ms. Moulis can answer all your TCC questions including fall concurrent enrollment questions.

How will students in Tulsa Tech programs earn final credits? Tulsa Tech will contact each student regarding the continuation of those programs. This is a link for Tulsa Tech FAQ's
